“Explaining Disparities: Bringing Together Approaches from Epidemiology and Economics Under a Causal Framework”

Presented by: John Jackson, ScD
Assistant Professor
Departments of Epidemiology and Mental Health
Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health

Bio blurb: Dr. Jackson is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Epidemiology at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health with a joint appointment in Mental Health. Trained in pharmacoepidemiology and causal inference, his research focuses on study designs and analytic strategies to identify, refine, evaluate, and translate interventions to eliminate health and healthcare disparities. He also develops methods to improve the transparency and conduct of observational studies and post-hoc analyses of clinical trials.

Lunch will be provided: Please RVSP to Kelley.Baron@umassmed.edu
