- Three letters of recommendation.
- Passing scores on USMLE Step I. Applicants must also have passed USMLE Step II (CS and CK) before starting residency, as it is a requirement for Massachusetts licensure.
- COMLEX scores are accepted for graduates of osteopathic medical schools.
- Deadline for application is November 1st 2020
- Graduates of international medical schools must:
 - ✓ Be certified by the Education Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates \(ECFMG\)
 - ✓ Have a minimum of one year of clinical experience in the US medical system.
 - ✓ Have at least one letter of recommendation from a supervisor of their US clinical experience.
 - ✓ There are no restrictions regarding the number of years since medical school graduation.

Visa sponsorship changes frequently and the latest information is available on our visa section.

The UMass OB/GYN residency program offers five categorical PGY-1 positions available in the match each year. There are 5 interview days each year. This year they will be in November December, and January . Interviews are held by invitation only and are required for an applicant to be ranked in the NRMP Match.

Invitations will be sent out Tuesday November 10th and November 17th and applicants are required to respond to the interview offer by the following Friday, November 13th or November 20th noon ET. Please note we will follow the APGO and CREOG Residency Application Response to COVID-19 guidelines when reviewing the applications this coming recruitment season. Check the link for more information on the new specialty-wide standards for the OBGYN residency application and interview processes.
