

Lexi L. Williams, B.A.
Clinical Research Assistant

Lexi is a Clinical Research Assistant within the Smelson Lab. She graduated from Clark University in May of 2020 with a major in psychology and a concentration in public health. At Clark, Lexi worked as a lab assistant within James Cordova's couples research lab, and she completed an honors thesis with Dr. Cordova's supervision. Within the lab, Lexi coordinates Cape Cod II, a project implementing MISSION for justice-involved individuals with co-occurring disorders within the Barnstable Drug Treatment Court in MA. She also assists with the Mediation-Assisted Treatment – Reentry Initiative (MAT-RI) project, which connects individuals with opioid use disorder to MAT and pre- and post-release support services. Lexi's research interests include interpersonal relationships, psychopathology, and examining the overlaps between public health and psychology.
